STRICTLY PERSONAL: EXCERPTS FROM MY DIARY

June 20 -- CIA director Bill Casey telephoned to talk off-the-record about news leaks. I agreed not to publish the details of our conversation, but I can report this much: He identified two high officials who constantly leak government secrets to their favorite reporters. Casey believes these leaks have damaged President Reagan and probably endangered security. But Casey is frustrated; he can't persuade anyone to take action against culprits; they seem to have political immunity.
